Jimmy finally a reply from Jane this morning.

"Hi Robert we can chat later today. We struggled at our board meeting last week. Here are the basic elements of our board and shareholder's direction on how to approach the remaining A320neo sale and leasebacks this year:

1. We will be unable to fund any new delivery unless all payments are up to date, so there can be no deferred payments outstanding at closing
2. We need some quid pro quo to fund $250M of capex on terms that now appear to be wildly off market, and we are seeing many parties walk from 2019 priced commitments due to the unprecedented crisis we are in. Our thinking here is that a QPQ which would be of value to us is a 4yr lease extension of the earlier block of Neo deliveries from Accipiter to take those leases to 12yr

Let's chat later today if you're available?"

I agree, I may be able to get Jane down to five deliveries for five extension but not setting the rent until the current lease expires

They're going to want something out of if they are paying $51 million

If things improve sooner then later then they are getting a windfall.

This is just my thoughts, we agree to 5 out of 12 aircraft that have 8 year leases we extend for 4 years after the current lease is up, but we mutually agree that the 4 year extension rent rate is not set until we're within 1 year of the current lease expiry. She must me nuts thinking we would agree to pay the same rent rate for additional 4 years

We should compare the AMCK deal economics less what we're going giving up to AMCK to the [Redacted] proposal.

If [Redacted] proposal has better overall economics, then push AMCK deliveries to 2021.

Jimmy let me just think about it here I'm texting Jane but I think you're right let me hold him to the deal they signed up for, we've agreed to pay back the referral rent there's no reason why they can't commit to this deal now there getting greedy
